

Top 4 reasons respondents would use an eID

It's convenient

It's secure

It's easier to keep track of than a physical ID

It would be harder for my identity to get stolen

Top 4 reasons respondents would not use an eID

I worry it's not secure

I worry it's easier for my identity to be stolen

I don't want to give up control of my identity data

I worry about losing access

Entrust Insight

"Identity is highly personal, so I'm not surprised to see concerns about different forms of ID in our report's findings. The truth is that there is no zero-sum game here. The identity pie is getting bigger as identity types and their use cases grow. The global trend is toward credentials that work seamlessly in-person and online, in ways that respect both the need for the security, and the privacy rights of the individual."

Anudeep Parhar

Chief Operating Officer, Entrust

